TELLING STORIES THROUGH OBJECTS

unravelling the meaning of an 18th century quilt

by JACQ BARBER

Jacq will be exploring how an anonymous patchwork coverlet can be read as a fascinating document about 18th century life. She is an expert on the History of Design from the 18th century to the post war years and has worked at Bonhams, the V&A and the National Trust.

Jacq currently lectures at Stroud College. She also runs a part-time course on the History of Design and Decorative Arts at the Museum in the Park.

Members £1, Guests £3.

Refreshments included. All welcome.
