The History and Restoration of the Rococo Garden

by Dominic Hamilton, Garden Director

Abandoned in the 1950s and used to grow timber, the 18th century Rococo Garden was all but lost. Inspired by the above painting by Thomas Robb, Lord and Lady Dickinson decided in the 1980s to try and restore it, giving us the UK's only surviving Rococo Garden.

Dominic Hamilton is an excellent speaker and has a wealth of knowledge about the garden and its history. His talk is very well illustrated.
