From Landscapes to Macro: The Art of Noticing

Courtney is a locally based landscape and outdoor photographer who takes stunning images. She says of her work: 'I believe there is magic everywhere if you allow yourself to see it. I don't concern myself with travelling to epic locations to take great images, instead challenging myself to find inspiration locally. Not only is this a great photographic exercise, but it also allows me to build my own version of nature and the world around me....It is amazing what you can find hidden in small corners of a landscape and how even the tiniest of subjects can tell grand stories.'
